

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC LESSONS – Academic Year 2025-26

Arrangements and Charges

Tuition will be during the school day. Places are limited and a waiting list may operate for some instruments. Students will work towards graded exams within their instrumental lessons and there will be opportunities to enter for these under the guidance of the music tutor. Students receiving instrumental tuition should be encouraged to practice a minimum of 50 minutes per week (for example: 10 minutes of practice, 5 days a week) in between their weekly lessons to help ensure progress. 50 minutes a week is a guideline amount for young students to get started – keen/more-experienced students will likely practice for longer and more often. The rate of mastery attained on an instrument usually correlates with the amount of constructive practice undertaken. Students who do not practice are unlikely to make any significant progress. It is an expectation that any student taking instrumental lessons within the school, engages with the music enrichment programme by joining the appropriate extra-curricular music ensemble.

We currently offer the following instruments, which are now available to pay for via WisePay: -

Music Lessons

Informing Class Teachers

It is the student's responsibility to notify their class teacher at the beginning of the lesson so that they can be released from class to go to their music lesson. If a student enters a lesson late, it is their responsibility to return to class via Student Support, who will mark them present, with a note indicating what time they registered and that they were in a music lesson.

Times of lessons

Timetables will be issued to students via email prior to the start of each term, wherever possible and will also be displayed on the music noticeboard opposite the lockers in the gym corridor. Students should make a note of the times of their lessons in their student planner.

It is also the student's responsibility to inform their music teacher in advance of any exams/trips expected to clash with their lessons so alternative arrangements can be made wherever possible. Students will be charged for the lesson if sufficient notice is not given. Please note that no refunds can be issued for student absence, illness or holidays taken during term time. However, if the tutor is absent, a refund will be issued to the original payee.

Parent and student responsibilities

Students are expected to come prepared to all lessons with their instrument and any music they have been given to learn.
